If you arrive by car

... please be aware of the following:
On arrival, the car is parked within the marked areas of the map.

At the entrance, just to the right of the front door, there is a screen where you have to enter the car's registration number.

It is therefore important that you remember the registration number and enter it on arrival.

Once you have done this, you do not have to do more and you can park for free on the designated area for the rest of the day.

You will have to repeat this every day during your course.

It is allowed to park in the area marked with yellow.

The parking area is at Hørkær 11. There is a short walkway from the parking lot to Hørkær 18.
It is important that you park in this area.

Computerworld and IDG Courses are not able to pay a possible fine if you have parked outside the selected area.
